

DR. A. B. HINKLEY NAMED MAYOR

COUNCIL OPENS BIDS ON NEW SANITARY SEWER

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

With the ending of the July Fourth holidays, the death toll is well above the 400 mark — and the majority were as the result of automobile accidents.

And a portion of the deaths resulted from Fourth of July firecrackers and powder explosions.

In passing, one may state that if there is an ordinance in Richmond against the using of fireworks, the ordinance was either repealed or disobeyed.

In the residential districts of the city, fireworks were exploded throughout the day and night.

They were even set off on Saturday — the day after the Fourth.

And they were not all set off by "kids" either.

It is indeed fortunate that Richmond did not have a casualty list.

With the landing of the Southern Cross at Oakland and the end of the City of Chicago endurance flight at Chicago, one wonders what the newspapers can scribble now?

But, however, more flights will be coming up this summer.

Col. Arthur Goebel is planning soon to hop off from Paris and make the first western trip, direct to New York.

Goebel, as you will remember, was the winner of the Dole air race from Oakland to Hawaii several years ago.

Goebel will fly a specially constructed Lockheed plane.

And two other fliers are planning a flight from Tacoma to Tokyo.

And a Japanese flier will make the same flight — so he plans.

And as a result, one can expect the newspapers for the next two months to look like an aviation magazine.

Much Traffic Over Holidays

That 40,000 automobiles and 120,000 passengers crossed the Carquinez Toll bridge during the past weekend including the Fourth of July, was reported yesterday by officials of the Carquinez Toll Bridge company. This is a new record for automobile traffic over this bridge.

The Antioch bridge carried some 5,000 autos and 16,000 passengers during the holidays.

Heavy traffic was also reported on the Richmond-San Rafael and Richmond-San Francisco ferries, although figures were not available. It was reported that the traffic on the Richmond-San Rafael ferry was about the heaviest on record. However, the rush was spread over three days, therefore not necessitating any extra runs.

ACTION TO BE TAKEN NEXT MONDAY

Bids for the construction of the sanitary sewer in the industrial district, were opened at the meeting of the city council last night. There were four bids and they ranged from $99,000 to $186,000.

O. V. Miracle, a contractor, with headquarters in San Diego, and whose operations take in this state, Arizona, Montana and the Rocky Mountain section, was the low bidder. His bid was $99,200. Other bids were as follows: Jasper Stacy, San Francisco, $139,946.20; J. C. Hickey of San Francisco, $186,857; Healey-Tibbitts and company, $146,173.

When the bids were read they were laid over for a week in order to give the city engineer time to make his computations. This official succeeded in ascertaining the total of the bids, but too late to report them back to the council last night, as that body had adjourned.

The estimate of the city engineer on the job was $120,000, and makes the low bid $11,000 below the estimate.

The sewer for which the contract will be awarded next Monday night, is an extension of the Tenth street sewer, below Cutting, and will also hook up the Fourteenth street sewer. It will serve the industrial district, taking in the Filice & Perelli cannery, the Ford plant, and other industries that may locate in that section.

The assessment district which will pay for the construction of the sewer, takes in 23,000 lots.

SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE, British author and creator of the famous "Sherlock Holmes" died at his home in England yesterday.

DEATH TAKES CONAN DOYLE, FAMED WRITER

CROWBOROUGH, Sussex, England, July 7.—UP—The tranquil death of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, not unexpected, occurred at 9:15 a. m. today.

Members of his family, at the bedside when he died in his pleasant home at Windlesham, were busy with funeral arrangements this evening. Though grieving, they would not lessen their belief, profound and very real, that the famous spiritualist would communicate with them from the world into which he—and they—believed he has gone.

"I know perfectly well I am going to have conversation with my father," a son, Adrian Conan Doyle, said. He expressed the firm belief of the others, a belief instilled in a lifetime of association with Sir Arthur, possibly the world's most noted spiritualist.

Death was caused by heart trouble which had forced the creator of Sherlock Holmes to remain confined to his room almost constantly in recent weeks. He was 71 years old.

The exertion of a strenuous lecture tour in South America eight months ago was believed to have aggravated his condition and resulted in the critical attack which released the famous writer's spirit early today.

PARDON PLEA OF MOONEY DENIED

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—UP—The California pardon board tonight recommended that the pardon application of Tom Mooney, convicted of participation in the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing be denied.

The announcement of the prison board's stand was made by Governor C. C. Young, to whom Mooney had applied for pardon. Governor Young planned to make his announcement on the application Tuesday, he said, after giving out copies of the board's report to newspapermen.

The action of the prison board was considered as a hard blow to the hopes of Mooney that he would gain liberty after serving 14 years of a life term in San Quentin.

Billings Denied

On July 4 last, the state supreme court declined to honor the pardon application of Warren K. Billings, who was convicted with Mooney, and who was sentenced to life in Folsom prison.

These two reversals, it was believed, foreshadowed adverse action by Governor Young who has announced several times that he would be guided to some extent by the decision of the supreme court in the Billings case and the pardon board on the Mooney application.

The board started its report with a review of the bombing and of the trials of Mooney and Billings.

Testimony Told

An extensive part of the document dealt with the testimony of John MacDonald, who identified Billings as the man he saw carrying a suitcase just before the parade, and Mooney as the man he saw Billings talk to near a saloon where the bomb was planted in a suitcase similar to the one which (Continued on Page 5)

WOODMEN NINE BEATS OAK TEAM

Nothing, not even the Oakland Woodmen, could halt the terrific hitting spree of the Richmond Modern Woodmen of America Sunday morning at the First street diamond.

The local lodgemen did things in a big way this week-end. They gathered a 22 to 14 victory over the visitors, and netted a total of 22 hits off Padden, Oakland chucker.

"Babe" Pinelli collected the lone homer of the game for the local aggregation, while Hood, Gough, and Jester all did good work for Richmond by garnering four hits each.

Hansen and Gough alternated in the box for the victorious locals, and succeeded in whiffing seven visitors between them. They allowed but six hits.

In Sunday's ball game, the local Woodmen displayed a hitting attack and a fielding defense that should do plenty of damage to any teams with which it tangles during the remainder of the present season.

DR. HINKLEY NAMED MAYOR OF CITY

the betterment of the citizens of Richmond and also a credit to myself.

Lands Dealers
"It has been a pleasure for me to work on this body, not only with the other members, but it has been a pleasure to work under two mayors, Mattie A. Chandler and A. L. Paulsen. The past year has been one of depression, and I want to say that under such conditions Mayor Paulsen has come out of them with flying colors.

"In a community like ours there are some citizens who do not think that we are progressing as rapidly as we should, but if you will visit other places, and see the conditions that exist, and then return home you will be more than satisfied with your home city.

Good Progress
"In the past few years wonderful progress has been made, but I want to say that we are on the eve of a development in the next few years that but few of us can anticipate at the present time. A new cannery has just been opened that is giving employment to hundreds of women, and following it will come the Ford factory, which will provide employment for many.

"None of this advancement could have been made without the co-operation of the city officials and the citizens of the city, and I want to ask for that same co-operation from you in the future.

Much Applause
"Again I want to thank each and everyone of you for the honor you have conferred on me."

At the conclusion of his speech, Dr. Hinkley was greeted with continued applause.

The business of the evening was then taken up, and zone through with in short dispatch the new mayor presiding just as though he had occupied the chair for the past ten years.

Aged Negro Recalls Civil War Days

ROANOKE, Va.—Fleming Timms, negro of the Black Creek district, radiated optimism on his 100th birthday and declared he felt well and alert. He claims to have served in the war between the states as a wagoner and draws a pension from the state every three months. Once Fleming quit chewing tobacco but took it up again when he said abstinence made him hoarse. He still believes a man can thresh more wheat than a machine.

Kents Make Boating Trip

A three day boating trip up the Sacramento river and several of its tributaries was made over the week end by Dr. and Mrs. Francis Kent and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Marshall of this city.

The trip was made in the large launch of Commodore Alameda of the Northern California Outboard association. Alameda navigated the craft. Mrs. Alameda was also a member of the party.

The trip began Friday and ended Sunday afternoon.

Hooks Salmon Gets License

AUGUSTA, Me.—Harold D. Jennings, president of the board of aldermen, was fishing for smelts in the Kennebec river near City Hall.

Suddenly he discovered that he had a salmon on the hook. One does not need a license to smelt, but one must have a license to fish for salmon. Jennings had no license, but he was undaunted.

His shouts attracted City Clerk S. Sewell Webster to a window of the latter's nearby office. After hearing Jennings' plea, the city clerk hastily issued the necessary license, and a few moments later the fisherman landed his salmon. It weighed four pounds.

Blue Law Hearing Plan Is Protested

PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—The public hearings to be held here in the near future for the revision of the Sunday Blue Laws, have been termed unfair by the Philadelphia County Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The "unfairness" lies, according to a resolution passed by the organization, in that they are to be held during the summer "when most of the organizations interested in the proper observance of the Lords' day have adjourned their activities for the summer."

The organization also has condemned military training in the schools and colleges and adopted a resolution calling upon the government to "revise and amend" the National Defense Act "so that our government will no longer aid in re-creating boys and girls to prepare for battle."

ODD FELLOW 9 NATIVE SONS PLAY TODAY

Action, oodles of it, is awaiting the Richmond Baseball fan this afternoon when he betakes himself to the Richmond Union High school diamond.

The reason for the excitement certain to reign at the high school this afternoon is the fact that the leadership of the Richmond City Twilight League will be at stake.

The featured actors in this drama of the local diamond are the Richmond Odd Fellows and the Native Sons Nine.

The linkers will enter the field this afternoon with the slight edge of one extra victory over the Native Sons.

The Native Sons of the Golden West will go into battle determined to bridge this one-game gap between themselves and the opposing lodgemen.

The Odd Fellows will come to the high school diamond this afternoon with the realization that this one contest will decide whether or not they are to capture the city league pennant for first place without giving further battle to both the Native Sons and the Fire men.

A triple tie is not very far off in the offing. The Firemen, who are tied with the Native Sons for second place, will have their chance to complicate things a bit Friday afternoon when they are scheduled to do battle with the obsolete Standard Oil nine. The refinery athletes will almost without a doubt be absent from the high school lot Friday afternoon, as they have been habitually failing to appear at league games for more than a month.

Therefore, if the Odd Fellows are unable to trounce the fast Native Sons this afternoon, the Firemen, Odd Fellows, and the Native Sons will all be in a triple tie for first position on the City League ladder.

Special importance is given to the existing situation by the offer of the Mechanics Bank to present a cup to the winner of a three game series to be played following the regular league schedule between the first and second place holders.

Today's critical contest is expected to offer plenty of excitement to the Richmond fan, for past competition between the Odd Fellows and Native Sons has never failed to be close, hard and fast. In the last Odd Fellows-Native Sons battle, a last minute homer on the part of the linkers shut the Native Sons out of a possible victory.

The contest will start at 5:15 at the high school, with Johnny Cabral umpiring.

The game scheduled for last night between the Lions and Mechanics Bank was not played as the game would have had no effect on the final league standing.

Kales Beaten By Dr. Walter In Golf Play

Frank Kales, coast manager of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company, was defeated Sunday at the Orinda Country club by Dr. C. H. Walter, of Sequoyah club by a score of 3 to 2 in second round matches in the annual invitation tournament.

Playing the bye hole, Dr. Walter mediated 72 which included an 11 in 3, three under par figures. An eagle three, at the 455 yard par five hole, and a birdie three at the tenth where, he played a clever cut pitch shot three feet from the cup, were only a few of the fine plays by the veteran champion. Kales was putting well but failed to duplicate the excellent driving and approaching that gave him a new course record in the qualifying round last Friday.

According to the player-writer rule, no player is allowed to write "current news reports." Tilden's superb play in the Wimbledon tournament has led many to believe that he will be invited to play two of the singles matches against France, provided the U. S. wins the inter-zone final.

Prince Of Wales Toots Mean Sax

LONDON, July 7.—UP—The Prince of Wales means a snappy saxophone, a number of his guests discovered recently.

On walking into the ball-room they found, instead of the usual jazz band, the prince at the "sax" and the Duke of York, the Duke of Gloucester and several friends at drums and cornets.

Hoover Urges Senate To Act On Navy Pect

WASHINGTON, July 7.—UP—President Hoover won the initial victory in the special senate session today by gathering a quorum of senators. Fifty-eight, nine more than the minimum required to transact business, were there to hear the blunt words of Hoover's special message warning that the only alternative to reduction was competitive building of navies "with all its flow of suspicion, hate, ill-will and ultimate disaster."

Immediately the treaty opponents who number about a dozen started their first attack, with introduction of a resolution by Senator McCellar, Dem., Tenn., calling on Hoover to make public the confidential correspondence dealing with the treaty which he has already refused to do.

This resolution, to be brought up tomorrow, probably following the opening speech of the debate by Senator Swanson, Dem., Va., in favor of the treaty has considerable support among senators. Leaders of Hoover's flight are confident they can beat it, but it will gather some votes from senators who approve of and support the treaty itself.

Johnson In Attack

An attempt to calm the troubled waters by Senator Reed, Repn. Pa., one of Hoover's delegates to the London naval conference which drafted the treaty, met a fiery reception from the outspoken leader of the opposition, Senator Johnson, Repn. Calif.

Reed explained he and the other senate delegate, Robinson, Dem., pondered between Ambassador Dawes in London and President Hoover and Secretary Stimson here leading up to the conference and the treaty. There was, he assured, a reason for secrecy. Reed added that he has a copy of these exchanges, which he would be glad to display to any senator confidentially.

Johnson, outraged, jumped to his feet. In one of his well-known bursts of oratory, with his caustic remarks arranged in long sentences rolling out over a period of two or three minutes, he spurned Reed's offer. The senate is doing the public business, and the president has no right to bind it or its members to secrecy, he said.

Treaty Read

He stopped abruptly, and sat down, whereupon the calm Borah chairman of the foreign relations committee moved that the treaty be read formally and that adjournment

Work Started On Boulder Dam Project

WASHINGTON, July 7.—UP—The first actual work toward the construction of Boulder Dam was started today with the beginning of a railroad, construction roads and a complete town which will be used during the building of the giant water and power project of the west.

Work was begun on the order of Secretary of Interior Wilbur, who telegraphed Walter R. Young, engineer in charge, immediately after President Hoover signed the second deficiency bill with its $10,600,000 appropriation for the dam.

Young and a force were at the dam site awaiting instructions and R. F. Walter, chief of the reclamation bureau was in Denver ready to take action in the near future.

Workers Warned

When Secretary Wilbur flashed the word west he issued at the same time a statement warning against a trek of job seekers to the scene of operations.

The dam site is located in the midst of a great desert, Wilbur said, "with few inhabitants and slight opportunity for other employment than that which it may afford. Employment will develop only as contracts are let and ample notice will be given when opportunities for work present themselves."

Secretary Wilbur's order, directed to Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation said: "You are directed to commence construction on Boulder Dam today."

BORN RECKLESS NOW SHOWING AT FOX

Do you keep your promise? Gangsters do. That is why a gangster who made a promise to his dying buddy amid the roar of aerial bombs and the stunner of machine gun fire "somewhere in France," kept that promise at the risk of his life—and in so doing brought about one of the most dramatic climaxes in screen history.

"Born Reckless," the exciting Fox Movielet, all talker which comes to the Fox-California theater today, is said to be the first screen offering that accurately depicts gangster life as it really is. Closely adapted from Donald Henderson Clark's real-life novel of the underworld, "Louis Beretti," the film combines adventure, action, romance and suspense to an unusual degree.

Also on the program is a talking playlet entitled "Belle of the Night"

Choral Director 104 Leads Choir

LOS ANGELES, July 7.—UP—Age is no bar to a choral director's ability, as 104-year-old Galusha Cole of Los Angeles can prove.

A packed audience at the First Methodist church here Sunday night saw the centenarian lead the 150 voices of the chorus with all the aplomb of a director half his years.

Cole was a noted director more than 83 years ago and has been active in music work ever since.

Don't Trust Jack With One Wheel Off

Play safe and block up the car in a most thorough manner before removing a wheel, warns L. G. Evans, general service manager of the National Automobile club. It is unwise to trust to an ordinary jack the duty of upholding the car while the wheel is off. The usual narrow base of the jack affords too much opportunity for it to fail.

BE PREPARED FOR OPPORTUNITIES

Opportunities have a way of presenting themselves to those who are prepared. It is the sum of ready money at the right time that builds a home, starts a business, buys a partnership, lays the foundation of a fortune, or in one way or another puts one on the high road to independence.

Getting ahead is largely a matter of getting started saving. Many persons promise themselves to start saving, but wait until they determine how much they have left after spending. Here is a suggestion: Instead of saving what is left after spending, plan to spend what is left after saving. The important thing is to begin today.

Crutch Dance Brings Aid

DETROIT, July 7.—UP When Harry E. Smithson began preparations for his "Crutch Dance" with which he hopes to gain funds that will pay for a partial cure of his injuries that have kept him in bed four years, he found that the world wasn't such a bad place after all. Two orchestras agreed to contribute their services, Babe Ruth, the Tigers, Yankees and Giants ball clubs furnished autographed balls, Rudy Vallee sent his megaphone, Primo Carnera some boxing gloves and endless Detroiters have lent a helping hand. Smithson was injured in an auto crash.

Twins Think In Same Vein

JONESBORO, Ark., July 7.—UP—Twins, who not only look alike but think alike, have presented the U. S. Civil Service with a perplexing problem.

The twins, Letha G. and Leton G. Adams, co-ed students at Arkansas State College here, recently took a civil service examination.

Their papers went in. A short time later came a report from Uncle Sam, couched in the best official language. It informed the twins there was "obvious evidence of copying in the examination papers, and that the twins were barred forever from again taking a civil service examination.

The girls reported the matter to college authorities, who immediately filed protest with the civil service authorities. The professor declared there was not a possible chance the girls "cribbed."

The instructors stated the twins' minds just naturally run in the same channels; that as one thinks the other thinks. In college examinations the girls turn in almost identical papers, the instructors said.

Therefore, it is contended, Uncle Sam should not bar the twins just because they think alike.

Psychologists Vs. Parents

ONCE upon a time there was a Conscientious Mother, who wanted to bring up her family in the Best Possible Way, according to the Latest Scientific Ideas. So she thought she ought to find out

What the sociologists and the psychologists say. About the family and how to take care of it, And she began to investigate. First of all, she looked into Dr. John B. Watson. But, as nearly as she could make out, he said that she ought not to bring up her family at all—That she could have a baby, of course. But that two weeks after its birth she ought to swap it for the baby of some one else. And, two weeks later, swap that second baby for a third. And so on, as long as there were babies enough to go around—Her own, of course, being hopelessly lost in the shuffle. Well, and then the Conscientious Mother, turning in despair from Dr. Watson—(What we'd like to know is whether ANY genuine mother can swallow the things the chief exponent of Behaviorism sets forth, in apparent seriousness)—The Conscientious Mother, to return to her, got hold of the works Of a gentleman named Schmalhausen—And, if she did not misunderstand him, she gathered That while she might, indeed, raise a family of children, She and the children would wreck one another in the process—Becoming either vicious, or feeble-minded, or both, Simply as a result of the appalling influence of parental love and care And of family life for the young and impressionable. Naturally, the Conscientious Mother was now feeling somewhat discouraged. Yet, in her humility, she still supposed that she might learn from experts. So she continued to note what they advised. One day she was attracted by the headline: "Expert Tells Social Workers How Big Family Ought to Be"—Marvellous, she reflected meekly, that an expert could lay down a general law On a topic which fathers and mothers—to say nothing of church and state—Are still discussing dubiously, without anything like general agreement. She looked below the headline and found that the expert

Was Miss Johanna C. Colcord of the Russell Sage Foundation in New York. Who recently told the Fifty-Seventh Annual Meeting of the National Conference of Social Work That "Enough children are needed to take from the parents part of the duty of disciplining each other." It really hadn't occurred to the Conscientious Mother That she and her husband, to whom she was devoted, had any "duty of disciplining each other"—She thought they might get along merely by loving. Now she learned that they not only had to discipline each other But had to produce children to share in the job. Miss Colcord also went on to declare that "More stable children seem to be reared by parents who are too busy at useful tasks 'To interfere unnecessarily in the development of the children.'" The Conscientious Mother thought that she had read statements easier to understand. However, she concluded that she might be stupid. And went on with her research among the psychologists. Who all seemed so eager and prepared to tell mere parents what to do. The first duty of parents, according to a recent statement to a parent-teacher congress, By William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, is to recognize and adjust the following four sources of "constant conflict" with their children: "1. Habits of modern children to remain out late at night. "2. Resentment of children toward parental advice. "3. Extravagance and carelessness of children. "4. Refusal of children to marry persons of their parents' choice." After these small problems of bringing up the family are settled—Though the Conscientious Mother couldn't find how Commissioner Cooper advised settling them—She noted that he warned parents not to attempt to realize their own thwarted ambitions In influencing their children's vocations—That did sound to her like a sensible hint. Next, she found warnings, issued by Dr. Lawson G. Lowrey to the International Congress on Mental Hygiene. "I would make a plea for awakening parents 'To their importance in the environment of the child,'" declared this doctor. Many a child suffers from having childish parents, he has found. And he thinks the parent over-stresses obedience Because it is easier to object to a child's behavior Than it is to encourage character building. But, worriedly reflected the Conscientious Mother, A child has to do some obeying, and how much character can be built On the shifting sands of willfulness, impertinence, irresponsible defiance? Then she read a report from Boston Of a speech before another National Conference by Miss Miriam Van Waters. "The growth of the child toward the spiritual life," ran this preachment, "is a progress in self-discipline. 'Wherein the essence of objects becomes more important than their possession.' We are afraid that the Conscientious Mother read it twice. And then murmured: 'Very nice—but what does it mean?' And in a competitive society, hasn't a child learn 'That—in reason—he has to work to possess?' What finally finished the psychologists, however—From the Conscientious Mother's possibly benighted viewpoint—Was a summary of the conclusions of a psychological investigator at Columbia. Who have announced that, before a child can learn how to eat correctly, He must go through 446 stages of knowledge—He must learn 75 different things before he can even drink a cup of milk. Mothers, the psychologists assert, forget there are so many different steps. And are too hasty in teaching their children table manners—But at this point the Conscientious Mother uttered a long, low moan And vowed then and there, to pass up psychology. In favor of common sense, observation, affection applied to the upbringing of her children—And she wondered, as the net result of her psychological research, How many psychologists are parents—Or, if they are, how many use their psychology on their OWN babies?

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

MY HEART goes out to the mothers of boys who have just graduated from high school. I have found in my own experience that the dangerous age for a boy is between eighteen and twenty-one. It is the age of searching—they are trying to find themselves and the strong arms of loving mothers are very much needed at this time. When a boy gets out of high school it is an excellent time for him to get acquainted with his father, if he has one. My observation shows me that many criminals have been brought up without the masculine influence which does not in any manner signify that the influence needed is the association with step-fathers. Between eighteen and twenty-one is a good time to teach boys that there are others in the world besides themselves and that the world needs, yes demands, usefulness. In short, does YOUR boy know what it is all about?

Saving Work in Summer

THE wise housewife reduces her housework to the minimum during the three summer months. She has put away the tablecloths and the heavy linen napkins and she uses doilies even when there are guests. When she serves a meal on the porch she uses the attractive colored lunch cloths. These are much easier to launder than the damask table linen. She frequently serves plate meals and the family likes it because there is no waiting for the carving of the meat and no delay in serving. The housekeeper likes it because it simplifies the clearing of the table and there is no formidable pile of dishes to be washed. She prepares individual desserts when possible thus simplifying the serving at table. She serves these plate meals attractively and the desserts look appetizing, so appetites are keen. No one is hurried or fatigued from overexertion and the meal is a very pleasant period of the home life.

Why Worry?

WHY worry, when all it does for you is to blanch your hair and give you wrinkles, large pores, some times blotches, a scrawny figure, poor posture, a flat voice and a beastly disposition? Worry is one of the most destructive forces in the world. It is the most destructive to beauty. Roused, laughing pink faces grow gaunt and pasty under the poisonous influence of worry. Happily functioning digestive systems go all awry when touched by the demon of fear—which is, as you know, just another name for worry. An uglier name, to be sure, and therefore less popular. Maybe, if we were to call worry by its right name, maybe, if we were to start calling the worrisome cowards, there might not be so much worry in the world. One thing we are pretty sure of, no matter about this—when a woman fully realizes that worry is her beauty's worst enemy, worse by far than toll or wear or even the passing years, she will accept the serious happenings of life with a lighter heart. But first she must fully realize what an insidious and deadly poison worry is to her looks. Just think about this a while, you who are lax when it comes to battling with worry. Just remind yourself that while the causes of worry must pass inevitably and along with them the worries themselves, that the scars of worry—the drab hair, furrowed forehead, the stoop of the shoulders and the droop of the mouth—are more than likely to remain. Certainly it will take infinite patience and perseverance to remove them. And what folly of follies to worry about one's looks! A wrinkle that is worried about usually multiplies itself by two or three. The gray hair that is fretted over breeds additional gray hairs and the sick skin that is feared for never will grow better while the fear continues. And haven't you known thin folk who worried themselves into a state of chronic thinness over their thinness? Oh, vicious circle, if ever there was one, to worry over the consequences of worry! We know a marvelous "cure" for beauty worries—constructive beauty treatments. Treatments so intelligently planned and so energetically carried out, that all one's worry energy is absorbed—no room for it. The problem is not to think about it at all but to do something about it—and quickly. Does are not brooders as a rule, are they?

For the Picnic

Corks are porous and readily absorb odors; they are quite as apt to impart an undesirable flavor to other liquids carried in the thermos bottle. It is, therefore, advisable to have a set of corks, one to use for each beverage. Small metal or gummed paper letters may be pasted on top of the corks to distinguish them, thus C for coffee, T for tea, etc.

EVEN NIGHTGOWNS HAVE TRAINS

French ribbon with a design of tiny flowers in pastel shades makes the nightgown at left. The corded applique and sash are of rose silk. (Franklin Simon.) Peach triple voile is used for the elaborate gown at right, trimmed with beige Alençon lace and ending in a train. The seams are whipped with beige silk. (Emma Maloot.)

A Tea Time Story

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

AT THE gates of heaven, there stood two women waiting for judgment. Both had been sinners, and both had been guilty of the same crime, yet the one looked rather disapprovingly at the other, who seemed quite crushed and humble. "I don't know why you wait at all," the first one said chidingly to her companion, "you have not the slightest chance. You did nothing to atone for your sin. I doubt that you ever repented properly. They'll never consider your case." Just then St. Peter appeared with his notebook and began to examine them.

"Well, let me see," he said, "what are you up for? Here, I have it—infidelity—both of you. Now, let's have the details. You first." He turned to the prouder of the two women. "You betrayed your husband?"

"Yes, I was tempted by an unscrupulous friend and I fell. I have repented my sin deeply and I tried to expiate it to my full power."

"Indeed?" said St. Peter. "And how did you go about this expiation business?"

"When my husband returned I freely and fully confessed my fault to him, even though my paragon bade me keep it a secret. I refused to live a lie, and to add hypocrisy to my other sin."

"And what were the results of your confession?" demanded the Saint.

"Alas, my husband was very unhappy, and in a bitter quarrel he killed my lover. Though a jury of mortal men declared him not guilty, his life was broken just as mine."

"Well," said the Saint, "that's that. And now you, and he beckoned to the second woman. "You, too, have been unfaithful?"

"Yes," she confessed. "I fell in love and I could not resist the urgings of my frail heart."

"And your husband?"

"He never knew about it. I kept it a secret till my death, and contrived that even afterward he should never find out what I had done."

"No," she admitted. "We were all three quite contented. After a while my lover had to leave me and I suffered much under the separation. But time healed this sorrow and I knew he thought of me as a friend. And my husband loved me and was devoted to me and I tried to repay, at least with kindness his affection and to make up in wifely care for the womanly love of which I had deprived him."

"Well, well," said the Saint. "It's a bad business, I suppose I should really send both of you away. But at least you knew how to keep your mouth shut. So come in and behave yourself," and the sinners who had not made others suffer for her sin was thereupon admitted.

If Camping

Collect all the ends of burnt candles and the discarded and broken combs and pack them in the luggage. When making your camp fire a few candle ends lighted and scattered among the twigs will dry the damp wood sufficiently to start a quick blaze and as the combs are very inflammable as well as waterproof they will help materially in producing a brisk fire in any kind of weather.

The experienced campers will have a folding camp stove (which has gasolene) among the equipment to use in case of emergency or a few cans of condensed alcohol for use when it is so wet you cannot get a fire going anyhow.

TELLING THE WORLD

(Continuing our series of home lessons on how to be a success, we offer a course to-day on becoming a market operator by studying at home in your spare time. Many heartfelt letters have reached this office by delayed mail complimenting us on our previous financial advice and investment guidance. Persons who never before knew a thing about the stock market now know twice as much. "One enthusiastic reader from Grasshopper, Ky., writes in: "Your market tips have changed the entire course of my life. I follow everything you say. I played Yeast Cakes for a rise and went short on Knickerbocker Panis, just as you advised. Now I am plunging on Otis Elevators. Before I started reading your financial advice, dandruff used to come off on my overcoat collar. Now this condition has been cured. To-day, thanks to your investment counsel, I have no overcoat at all. God bless you!" We have many other letters in a similar congratulatory vein. In to-day's article we tell our readers how to be market wise.)

HOW TO BE MARKET WISE

In One Simple Lesson

ONE of the difficult tricks the amateur trader must learn is to get panic-stricken over small details. Everything that happens in the solar system has a special significance to Wall Street and must be interpreted to push the market up or down. If you are a person who can go right on eating your lunch after learning the seventeen-year locusts have descended on Singapore, then you will never be a skilled market operator.

You should train your mind to be on the alert for all calamities. For instance, suppose you look at the ticker tape and learn that Jackie Coogan has just had his hair cut short. Your first impulse would be to say, "Well, well, I wonder if he still looks cute." But if you were a keen-minded trader you would shout, "My God! Coogan's had a haircut! What effect will this have on the Exchange?"

Then you calmly and swiftly analyze the thing. If Jackie Coogan cuts his hair short, that means 10,000,000 other cute little boys will have their cut short too. Ten million haircuts mean extra wear and tear on barbers' supplies. What are the barbers' supplies used for cutting hair? Why, scissors and callipers, of course! All right, then.

Scissors and callipers are made of steel, and making lots of extra scissors and callipers will take many tons of steel that would ordinarily be made into rails. That means steel rails will cost the railroads more. So you order your brokers to sell Erie and Southern Pacific short.

That's the way the smart operator does it. A half hour later the market starts to react to Jackie's haircut. W. O. Durant calls up J. P. Morgan and asks if he's heard the news. J. P. says yes and he's just summoned a group of bankers to stabilize the railroad stocks. Millions of dollars are dumped into the market, but Erie, Southern Pacific and other rail issues go down, down, down. You see, all the keenest operators have interpreted Jackie's haircut the same way.

While Wall Street is having a bad two hours Dillon, Read & Co. swing into action. Clarence Dillon summons his Board of Directors and slips them $20 gold pieces.

"Boys, you know the news," he says. "Jackie Coogan has knocked the bottom out of railroad stocks. But listen! Ten million other cute little boys will have their hair clipped this week. Don't you see the effect? Quotations on baled hair will drop, mattresses and overstuffed furniture will be cheaper, there will be a rapid turnover in these and the dividends will roll in. Now is the time to get in on Simmons Bed common, Grand Rapids Furniture "A" and "B," and Newark Davenport and Divan.

Quickly the operators put in buy orders for these issues and the market speedily reacts. Simm Bed, Grd Rap Furn and Newark D & D start climbing. A spirit of optimism prevails and the slump of the day is checked. By closing time everything is jake once more.

Then at 3:10 P. M. a bulletin comes in that Coogan's hair wasn't cut at all, but Jackie was having his first shave. So that means the market will have another panic when it opens in the morning.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

EL CERRITO TO PURCHASE NEW TRUCK

The council of El Cerrito awarded the bid for a truck for the street department to Fagool Motor company for $3,222 at its meeting Monday night, provided the truck is purchased through Earl Corey local motor car dealer and is equipped with a worm drive.

Mayor J. R. Beck voted against the purchase, stating that there were trucks as good if not better the city could purchase at a lower cost.

On a request of H. Jacoby, the council ordered a resolution drawn up to be presented next Monday night endorsing the movement of the Berkeley Park residents to have the Colusa avenue bus continue to San Pablo from the cemetery.

Jacoby stated that Berkeley Park residents were circulating a petition asking the Key System to make the change and wanted the endorsement of the city council.

Collection of $300 due the city by the California Construction company on street work was referred to City Attorney T. H. DeLap as the construction company had not replied to the bill sent by City Clerk Mrs. Alice Walker.

Application of L. B. Cooley for a soft drink permit was referred to Acting Chief of Police Howard Thullen for one week.

On a motion of Councilman Peter Larsen the council appointed D. A. Arneson as building inspector.

"Ground Radio" Is Gold Finder

NEW ORLEANS, July 7.—A treasure-finding machine, the "ground radio," has been invented and hidden doubloons will be hidden no more its inventor George Osmond Maher of Baton Rouge believes.

In a demonstration of the instrument, which Maher said would locate "hidden gold, silver, lead, bronze or any other non-magnetic material" he dumped handfuls of coins on a floor. From a pair of earphones attached to a reporter's ears a whining buzz came, simultaneously with the waving of a yoke-shaped contraption over the metal.

Police Rescue Slayer Of Boy From Mob Men

SAN JOSE, July 7.—After he had shot down an eight year old boy in cold blood, and had been threatened by a mob of infuriated neighbors, Antonio Colosimo, 33 was today arrested and charged with murder.

The murdered youth, Joseph Pagliaro, according to police reports, climbing on the roof of a cabin in back of his home which has been occupied by Colosimo for several years.

Colosimo, police say, angered at being awakened, seized a shotgun and firing through a hole in the wall, fatally wounded the young boy. He died of his injuries an hour later.

A crowd quickly gathered and hootings of an intended lynching were heard.

Police, arriving on the scene, dispersed the mob and entered Colosimo's home where they found the shotgun and a number of shells.

Colosimo told arresting officers he "thought it was a cat" but police say the hole through which the shot was fired was close beside a window, and the boy must have been in full view of Colosimo.

When tempted to over-indulge

"Reach for a Lucky instead"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

*An investigation conducted by the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors and the Actuarial Society of America revealed the fact that the death rate increases practically 1% for every pound of excess weight carried between the ages of 40 and 44 years. In other words, a man 40 pounds overweight at this age has only 60% of expectancy of life of a man of normal weight. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.
